FULLINGMILL
FLY FISHING

You chose the perfect hook. You picked materials that match the bugs in your stream. You stayed up late on the vise experimenting with a new pattern. The next day you put it to the test. In fly fishing, there are few moments more special than catching a fish on a fly you tied yourself.

As avid fly tiers, we understand how special this moment is. We want to play a part in making it happen for you. So, we've been working on an exciting new addition over the past four years: Fulling Mill fly tying materials. We found new material sources, refined our dying process, did extensive research on the market and have come out with a range we're really proud of. From natural materials like bucktail, marabou, stripped peacock quills and rabbit zonker strips to dubbings, synthetics like flexi floss and a wide range of chenilles, there are over 1,400 new product SKUs. We understand that when it comes to tying great flies, there is no substitute for the best materials.

2024 also brings a host of fantastic new additions to our fly range. Many of them highlight our new materials. Tom Rosenbauer is back with more of his world-class dry flies. Pat Weiss and George Daniel have added some excellent dry dropper flies. Tyler Boroff has added a host of technical small tailwater bugs, as well as micro streamers. Spencer Higa has added a jig version of his famous SOS. Cheech and Curtis of Fly Fish Food have added big streamers and some stillwater bugs. Not only that, but internally we revamped our entire woolly bugger collection, added silk bodied wet flies and included dries featuring our new ultra dry yarn. We could keep going, but we'll let that sink in first.

Happy fishing,
The Fulling Mill Fly Fishing Team

200% Guarantee

Every feather is hand-picked. Every hackle is hand selected. Every fly is hand-made. Quality is at the heart of everything we do at Fulling Mill. Each fly is lovingly tied by one of our highly skilled artisans before completing a rigorous three phase quality control process. This gives us the confidence to offer our famous Fulling Mill 200% guarantee: if a fly isn't up to our highest standards, we will replace it with two that are. No 'ifs', 'buts' or 'maybes.' We are that confident of our quality.

Legendary Service

When a hatch is coming off, we know that every day counts. At Fulling Mill we are known for our ability to meet your demands quickly. Whether flies, fly tying materials, boxes or accessories, we fill the majority of our orders almost immediately. Then, they're shipped to you and will be in your fly bins or on your shelves in a matter of days.

NEW FOR 2024

We have marked all NEW products for 2024 with this symbol.

Through this catalog we are proud to offer you the full Orvis signature fly assortment, as marked by this symbol. Orvis signature patterns are unparalleled in their breadth and vision and bring together a collection of flies like no other, designed exclusively by those who can only be described as true fishing legends.

We also feature the flies of Clark (Cheech) Pierce and Curtis Fry from Fly Fish Food. They have been innovators in fly tying for many years, and have created a wide variety of flies that range from small dries to meaty articulated streamers. These flies are tied and tested for effectiveness and durability to ensure that anglers will have unique flies that will stand out against the rest. Look for the Fly Fish Food logo in our catalog to find their innovative patterns.

Bead Sizing Advice and Bead Use Tips

1) For each bead size, a range of hook sizes have been suggested, the most suitable size is in RED.
2) This is just a guide. Hook styles, shapes and wire gauges vary considerably so there can be no hard and fast rules.
3) Sproat and round bend hooks with a standard gape will not normally be able to take a bead size any bigger than the "most suitable" size.
4) It is generally easier to oversize a bead on wide gape style hooks if this is required.
5) Slotted beads will fit almost any size of hook. The only limiting factor is the size of the hook eye, which may be too small to stop the bead from slipping over it. If you want to oversize a hook with a slotted bead and your hook eye is too small, build a small dam of thread behind the eye to stop the bead from slipping over it.
6) To quickly fix a bead to the hook, make a few turns of an appropriate sized lead (or lead substitute) wire on the hook shank. Then, quickly place a drop of superglue in between your turns of wire and the bead. Then quickly push the lead wire hard up against the bead. This will securely trap the bead up against the hook eye. It is now ready for you start tying your fly. .

Interview With Fulling Mill Technical Manager, Eric Kelley

Eric Kelley is our Technical Manager at Fulling Mill USA. Born and raised in Pennsylvania, his angling and tying was shaped on the small spring creeks and wild brown trout found there. When it comes to small flies and light leaders, there are few people more dialed on their game.

At Fulling Mill Eric is responsible for designing in-house flies, working with our Signature Tiers, sourcing and prepping materials for tying and packaging, hook design and anything else that requires technical input. Every year he spends significant time working hands-on with our tiers, dyers and packagers in Kenya to ensure everything is produced to the very highest standard we expect.

Eric is a true student of fly tying and knows its history like few others. As such, our new material release is the realization of a lifetime of learning and work. He couldn't be more excited to share it with the world.

Q: Why did you decide to release a new range of Fulling Mill fly tying materials?

A: In the past couple of years we were kind of forced to do it, honestly. We were very "third party" reliant on our supply of raw materials and once those dried up, we had to find our own way. The silver lining is that it's actually been a really fun process. A bit stressing at times but that happens in life doesn't it? You get handed lemons, you make lemonade… or something like that. Personally, it's been surreal being able to say "I develop fly tying materials and flies for a living." I've always been really into the how's and why's of materials so having the opportunity to help produce some of the best out there means a lot to me.

Q: What is unique about the Fulling Mill fly tying range?

A: All the materials are pre-selected from the ground up before it makes it to the packet, which results in a superior quality product. Take for instance the Rabbit Zonker strips. Not only are we doing them in all the popular thicknesses, but we have the core colors as well as some unique ones. Plus, the hides are honestly the best quality I've ever seen. And the way they're packaged is great. It's easy to get in and out of the packet. There are no bald spots, no weirdly cut strips with hide fraying and they're not balled up and stuffed in a baggie. Basically, you get everything you want and nothing you don't. Plus, all the rabbits are bred for the meat industry so there is zero waste.

Q: What are you most excited to tie with from the range and why?

A: Boy that's a good question that's tough to answer. I'm going to pick two. Our bucktails are deceptively good. When I first saw them, I thought "eh, you know they could be bigger." However, when you take it out of the packet you instantly know you've got an absolute prime piece of bucktail with tons more usable material than usual. They can tie everything from Bulkhead minnows to Clousers and everything in-between. My second choice would have to be Flex Floss. I love this stuff. I use so much of it I should probably buy stock in it to be honest. We've got some unique colors you won't find anywhere else, and each strand is super straight and easy to get in and out of the pack. Again, no waste and a 100% usable product that's easy to use. I use this material on everything— dries, nymphs, streamers, you name it.

Q: What material are you most proud of and why?

A: These really are some good questions… you should be a journalist somewhere! Most proud of would probably be our Ultra-Nymph dubbing. A lot of what goes into the range is a joint effort between myself and our Technical Manager in the UK office, Steve Carew. I'm very fortunate to call him my mentor. The guy is a wizard in disguise. Anyway, this one is really cool because of the way it came together naturally for the two of us. We sat down one day and looked at all the materials we had lying in front of us that we were using for dubbing manufacturing and dreamed it up from there. We started cutting and blending. When we eventually finished, the final versions of it were and are amazing. You have some colors like "Tobacco Brown" that look really drab at face value. But, once you see it in the sunlight you have to do a double take because of how nice and translucent the dubbing is. Additionally, just wait until you see the "Psychedelic" colors in the line. Make sure you have a UV light and some polarized glasses on! Truthfully though, this range of dubbing is so nice to work with. It's so soft, it's mottled perfectly with all the dyed materials that go into it, and it may be the best nymph dub I've used.

Q: How did you come up with the colors for each range?

A: Lots of the colors you'll see through the material range are classics within the fly tying and fly fishing world that you simply can't do without. So they were easy to come up with. The other colors you see are more specific. For example, within the Flex Floss range you'll see colors like "Callibaetis" or "March Brown." These and many others we had to come up on our own and with the help of an expert in the field of dyeing. There was a lot of trial and error and color matching. It was a long road to get where we are now but we made it. We're lucky to have very talented and knowledge hungry employees in our dyeing room who know what they're doing and want to keep on learning. It's rare to nail a color down 100% each time but we've been working hard to dial in our process so that we can get it right every time.

Q: How will these materials make a difference on the vise?

A: I think people are going to find that their waste management does a complete turnaround when they start using materials from us. Take for instance the Marabou. Every single feather that goes into the packs is pre-selected. That means you get a plume that is 100% useable with no waste from it! Plus, the waste on the strips is pre-stripped. Say goodbye to that stuff that's all strung together and hardly useable. It's the same for Rabbit Zonkers, Turkey Biots, Goose Biots, etc.. You only get the best parts of the product that you're actually going to use, and we deal with all the stuff you don't. I really think the vast majority of tyers worldwide are going to enjoy the products.

Q: Is there anything to keep an eye on for the future?

A: There sure is! On top of the ever-growing selection of flies, we're going to do a handful of material launches in years to come. More naturals, more dubbings, and more synthetics. In the 2025 catalog year we're planning to pay attention to the saltwater & warmwater tying genres with some cool brushes, poppers and saltwater type fibers people are used to tying with. As with this launch, you're going to be getting high quality materials in generous amounts that are going to give you more bang for your buck. So, keep your eyes peeled for all that and tons more in the future!

FULLINGMILL

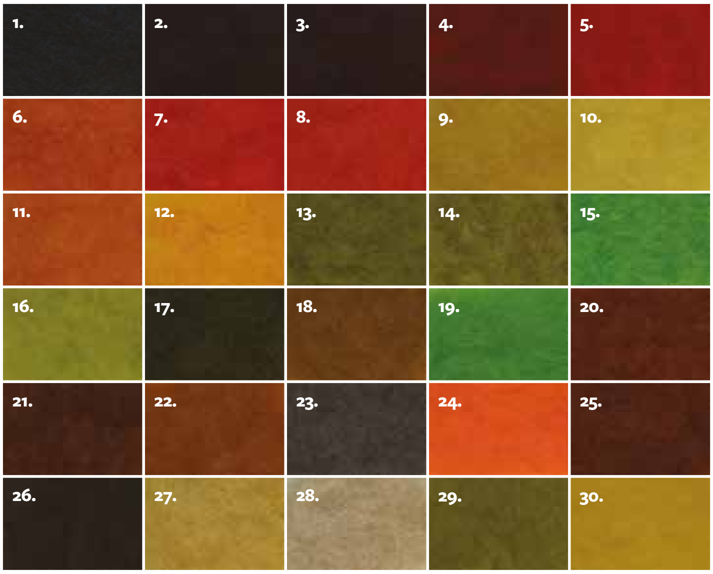
Micro Minnow is a synthetic flashy dubbing that is great for tying smaller streamers, predator and saltwater flies.

- A blend of synthetic and flash materials
- 1" Staple Length
- Great when used as a conventional dubbing, however it really comes into its own when used to make stacked or veiled heads on streamer or baitfish patterns
- 1 Gram per pack

SEAL X DUBBING

SRP $3.75



Seal X, the best seal fur alternative on the market.

- A blend of two natural fibers with a small percentage of synthetic to give the closest match of texture and translucency to genuine seal
- Dry flies tied with Seal X will take gel floatant very well and float superbly
- Use in any situation that you would normally use genuine seal's fur. Wet flies, nymph patterns and dry flies will all look superb when tied with Seal X
- 1 Gram per pack

LEADERS & TIPPET

FULLING MILL MASTERCLASS FLUOROCARBON

SRP $19.95

Masterclass is our premium fluorocarbon. While relatively new to the market, it's already being used by some of the best competition fly anglers out there. By pairing premium grade Japanese fluorocarbon with 21st Century German precision engineering, we were able to create a leader material that not only offers excellent knot strength but is super supple and highly abrasion resistant throughout the whole range of sizes.

Being a premium product, we expect premium performance. Masterclass is the market leader when it comes to density rating and its refractory index. This means it's the heaviest, most pure fluorocarbon on the market. And it's the clearest when submerged in water. Coupled with its impressively low diameter and suppleness throughout the range, it naturally lends itself to fishing for highly pressured fish, be it a wild brown trout on your local stream, or a double figure bonefish that has seen dozens and dozens of flies.

If you're looking for a tippet material that performs better, lasts longer and gives you peace of mind when you hook into something special, then Masterclass is definitely for you.

- Unique pure form premium fluorocarbon
- Technical revolution in design and performance
- 21st Century German precision engineering combined with premium grade Japanese raw materials
- Market leading density rating coupled with lowest refractory index
- Superb diameter vs. linear strength ratio, highly abrasion resistant
- Suitable for all fly fishing disciplines including trout, salmon and saltwater
- Supple and easy to knot
- Simple functional spool designed by fishermen for fishermen
- Conforms to EFFTA Line Charter
- All spools fitted with color coordinated (white/black/red) rubberized retainer band for improved handling characteristics

FULLING MILL MASTERCLASS NYLON

SRP $9.95

When the fish are feeding high in the water column on dries and emergers, nylon is the tippet material to reach for. It has a lower density than fluorocarbon, so it sits in the surface film much longer. This allows you to present your flies longer and more effectively.

As a rule of thumb, whether they fish rivers or lakes, many anglers tend to only use Nylon when dry fly fishing. It's extremely supple and allows your flies to drift freely on the water surface without too much surface tension—just like the real thing. More recently, competitive anglers have shown the advantages of fishing nymphs and chironomids on a method called the 'washing line,' where they want their flies to hang in the surface film throughout the whole retrieve.

If you fish shallow lakes where weed is an issue, or you want to present your flies in the most natural way possible as close as you can to the surface, Nylon is certainly worth a try.
